Trails

We discussed the types of facilities and amenities we should place in the soon-to-be acquired open space parcels. The consensus continues to be to start slowly until we can obtain a better feel for usage. We'll need some sort of bridge(s) across the White Clay in some areas. Earlier discussions were leaning toward stepping stones as a simple method of crossing, but some areas would be difficult because of steep banks and the difficulty certain user groups (e.g., families with small children) might have without a bridge.
